

CHP TRAINING?

This cartoon is the opening slide in a slide presentation by Sgt. Mike Nivens, of the Office of Special Projects for the California Highway Patrol; most recently presented to California law enforcement officers at the Traffic Safety Summit sponsored by the California Office of Traffic Safety, at Lake Tahoe, California, on or about May 26, 1993.

The tag around his neck says "FUTURE ORGAN DONOR", the tattoo on his arm says "BORN LOSER" and the tag on the helmet reads "E&R." In the balloon is something about the helmet being plenty big enough to protect his (tiny) brain.

Add to this witty imagery the little "joke" floating around CHP locker rooms: (Q): "Do you know the difference between a Harley and a Hoover?" (A): "With the Hoover, the dirt-bag is on the bottom."; and you get some real "funny" material for CHP training sessions...either that, or hard-core bigotry!

Quig, HLDL